Plan International Australia (including Plan International Australia in Papua New Guinea, Solomon Islands and Fiji) (PIA) is a global independent development and humanitarian organisation. We strive for a just world that advances children’s rights and equality for girls, work that is underpinned by a commitment to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC).

PIA believes every child and young person has the right to live a life free from any form of violence, and deserves to grow up in a safe, peaceful, nurturing and enabling environment where they can fully exercise their rights. This policy supports PIA’s commitment to protect girls, boys, young women, and young men from harm. It has been developed to provide a practical guide to prevent violence against children and young people as a result of PIA's work.

The policy and code of conduct aims to ensure that PIA takes all possible steps to ensure the safeguarding of children and young people against all forms of violence and creates an open and aware environment where concerns for the safety and wellbeing of a child or young person can be raised and managed in a fair and just manner, which protects the rights of all. This will be achieved by identifying and managing risks at all levels of our operations that may lead to harm. This policy gives an overview of the responsibilities of each PIA Participant that are outlined in the policy implementation procedures document Ensuring Child Protection – Plan in Australia Child Protection Policy Procedures, which offers specific guidelines for implementing this policy.

Purpose

The PIA Safeguarding Children and Young People Policy applies to all Staff, Managers, Directors, Volunteers, Associates and Visitors, all of whom are referred to collectively as ‘PIA Participants’ who must comply with its requirements and understand the sanctions that may be applied for breaches of the policy.

Policy statement

PIA is fully committed to the gender responsive safeguarding of all children and young people from all forms of violence. We take very seriously our responsibility and duty to ensure that we, as an organisation, and anyone who represents us, does not in any way harm, abuse or commit any other act of violence against children and young people or place them at risk of the same.

We promote child and youth safe practices, approaches, interventions and environments which respects, recognises and responds to the specific safeguarding needs and addresses the protection risks of the differing gender and other identities. We take a zero tolerance approach to all forms of violence against children and young people. We will challenge and do not tolerate inequality, discrimination or exclusion.

We respond to a child or young person who may be in need of protection and or psycho-social support and intend that their welfare and best interests will at all times be of paramount consideration. In the event that a child or young person has been harmed, PIA will do all that is legally and practically feasible to provide follow up support to that child or young person, particularly through referral to appropriate agencies, and at the very minimum will ensure the child is at no further risk of experiencing that same harm.

We ensure that all who work with, and engage with us, understand and are supported in their responsibilities to meet our safeguarding roles and responsibilities. We take positive action to prevent anyone who might be a risk to children and young people from any association or involvement with us and take stringent measures against PIA participants who perpetrate an act of violence against a child and/or young person. We promote the active involvement of children and young people in their own gender responsive protection.

Guiding principles
This policy is underpinned by the following set of principles (and values) that guides its implementation:

1. Rights of the child
   All children aged under 18 years have equal rights to protection from all forms of violence as declared in Article 19 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child. In addition, the Universal Declaration of Human Rights recognises fundamental human rights, the dignity, worth and equal rights of people at any age, thus including young people aged 18 to 24 years old.

2. Justice, Equality and non-discrimination
   The human rights of children and young people will be respected and applied to all, irrespective of age, sex, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, nationality, ethnic origin, colour, race, language, religious or political beliefs, marital status, disability, physical or mental health, family, socio-economic or cultural background, class, any history of conflict with the law or any other aspect of their background or identity. Inequality, exclusion, and discrimination will be challenged and will not be tolerated.
   Our safeguarding approach recognises and responds to the specific safeguarding risks and needs of differing gender and other identities. It takes appropriate measures to address gender bias and other forms of discrimination and violence which may arise as a result of these. It supports the empowerment and fosters the inclusion of girls in the safeguarding process, in a manner that promotes equality, equity and ultimately their increased safety and protection.

3. Inclusive and empowering
   All children and young people should be empowered and encouraged to fulfil their potential. Decisions made about children and young people will be made as far as possible with their participation and in their best interest, giving full consideration to how such decisions will affect them. Children will be encouraged to express their views and this will be given ‘due weight’ in accordance with their age and level of maturity.

4. Shared responsibility (We work well together)
   Everybody has a responsibility to support the care and protection of children and young people and must take their safeguarding responsibilities seriously and uphold the principles of the policy. These particular responsibilities extend to those individuals or organisations that are associated with PIA. Therefore, everyone working for, or associated with PIA’s work, must be aware of and adhere to the provisions of this policy.

5. Best interests of the child
   All decisions regarding the welfare, safeguarding and protection of children, and our decisions and actions in response to child protection concerns and breaches of this policy will be guided by the principle of ‘the best interests of the child’.

6. Open and accountable
   We are open and transparent, and will hold ourselves to account for our commitment to safeguard children and young people. Safeguarding concerns can be raised and discussed, poor practice and inappropriate behaviours can be challenged and addressed, and our safeguarding measures will be regularly reviewed and strengthened to ensure we remain accountable to children, young people, and their families.
   We have a responsibility to inform and empower children and young people so that they learn about and are better able to exercise their rights to protection. We will work with children, young people and their families, ensuring they understand the essence of this policy, our safeguarding commitment, and their rights, and the means via which they can report policy breaches. We will also involve them in the development of safeguarding measures within PIA in accordance with their age, gender, abilities, and evolving capacities.

7. Do no harm
   We have a responsibility to care for, safeguard and protect children and young people, especially those that are vulnerable, and make sure they are not harmed as a result of their engagement with PIA participants and programs. In instances where a breach of the policy is reported, we will ensure that investigation, follow-up and support is focussed upon the best interests and needs of the child.
We have particular responsibilities to children and young people with whom we come into contact. No child or young person must suffer harm, intentionally or unintentionally, as a result of their engagement, association or contact with us whether as a sponsored child, a participant in our programmes, projects, events, processes, or youth advisory panels or as part of a fundraising or influencing campaign. We also commit to a physical and online environment which promotes the safety and wellbeing of children and young people, and minimises their risk of harm.

8. Zero tolerance of child abuse and exploitation
Plan International Australia believes that any form of child abuse and exploitation is unacceptable and will not be tolerated. PIA will act on safeguarding concerns, ensuring that our actions are timely, appropriate, and centred on the best interest of the child or young person, taking into account their age, gender and other specific safeguarding needs and vulnerabilities.

9. We strive for lasting impact
This policy aims to ensure that PIA participants, as appropriate to their engagement with Plan, are skilled, confident, understand, accept and are well supported in meeting their Child Safeguarding responsibilities and engage positively with children, young people and communities in ways that enhance the achievement of PIA’s Purpose, and overall program goals and commitments.

Risk identification and management
PIA recognises that many of its participants have the best intentions towards children and young people, and work (with PIA) to promote their wellbeing and safety. PIA also recognises that unfortunately, by the nature of its work, it is at risk of being targeted by those wanting to exploit or harm children and young people and that there are a number of potential risks to children and young people in the delivery of our programs. We understand that the effects of abuse on children and young people are both devastating and long term.

Plan International Australia will not permit a person to work with children or young people if they pose an unacceptable risk to children and young people’s safety or wellbeing. PIA will seek to ensure it creates safe environments for children and young people and prevent those who intend to harm children or young people from becoming engaged with the organisation, by proactively assessing and managing risks to children and young people in all of our operations, activities, projects, programmes, partnerships, and actively monitoring them on a regular basis. PIA ensures gender responsive safeguarding measures are integrated into all areas of our work and all PIA participants (as relevant to their engagement with the organisation) are trained in recognising, assessing, mitigating, systematically reviewing and ultimately managing risks at all levels of the organisation. Additionally, child safeguarding and protection risks are assessed by the organisational Risk Assessment Team, included in our organisational risk register and monitored by the leadership and governing body.

It is the responsibility of all managers to ensure that these preventative measures are communicated and implemented— as guided by the documents Ensuring Child Protection – Plan International Australia Child Protection Policy Procedures and Plan International Global Child Protection Standards and Implementation Manual

8 We recognise that our incentive workers and community volunteers live in communities where we operate and so on rare occasions relationships may develop that may be seen as acceptable in the community but would breach this element of the code.
